Speaking Presence: The Art of Slowing Down and Connecting With Your Audience

Nothing is more important in any team effort than our ability to speak to each other with presence and authenticity. We must listen and speak from our still center even as complex events swirl around us. From her work as a speaking presence coach, helping people to develop an authentic presence when they speak, and also from her experience on sabbatical last year in Greece living in a yurt for 2 months, Carla Kimball has identified the ability to slow down as the one key ingredient to wellbeing, presence and living more sustainably. In this experiential presentation, you'll learn and practice the very fundamentals of speaking and listening with presence.
